

Amanda Heidemann, MD
Physician and EMR Medical Director
BJC Medical Group

Amanda Heidemann, M.D. is the EMR Medical Director for BJC Medical Group in St. Louis, Missouri. Dr. Heidemann began clinical practice with BJC in 2002, assuming the role of EMR Medical Director in 2005. For the past two years, she has worked full-time on BJC Medical Group's EMR initiatives. As a Six Sigma Yellow Belt, she has a keen interest in using Lean process tools to transform medical office practice and enhance the patient experience.

Dr. Heidemann has spoken in local, regional, and national venues regarding physician adoption of Electronic Health Records, use of e-prescribing technology, secure interchange of patient information among healthcare providers, and a variety of preventive health topics.

A Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians, Dr. Heidemann has been Chief of the Department of Family Medicine at Christian Hospital and served on the Board of Directors of the St. Louis Academy of Family Physicians. Dr. Heidemann was appointed Adjunct Clinical Professor in the Department of Medicine at Washington University School of Medicine. An advocate for primary care medical practice, she has been preceptor for medical students at St. Louis University School of Medicine, residents at St. John's Mercy Medical Center, and physician assistant students at Arcadia University.

Dr. Heidemann received her M.D. degree from Washington University School of Medicine in 1999. She completed a residency in Family Medicine at St. John's Mercy Medical Center, serving as Chief Resident.